To the Media:

The Milwaukee Bucks would like to welcome members of the media to the Milwaukee Arena. Our entire organization has an appreciation for your efforts and aims and will assist you in any way possible. In return, the coverage the media has afforded us throughout our years in the NBA has been superb and we appreciate your dedication. The following are some of the services we will provide and some of the things we ask of you to help us run our operation smoothly.

* Individual game credentials should be requested a minimum of 30 hours prior to game time (Friday noon for Saturday and Sunday games). Pre-arranged credentials may be picked up at the will-call window in the southwest corner of the Arena just off the Kilbourn Street entrance. Credentials are good for admittance to the Arena, Press Room, and home and visiting locker rooms. Media members holding Bucks' season passes should notify this office of their intentions to cover a game in order to reserve seating on the press table. All press seating in the Milwaukee Arena is on court level.

* The press room is located on court level in the northeast corner of the Arena. The room opens 1½ hours before the game and again at halftime and following the game. Secure storage of typewriters, coats, and the like is available. We must limit press room usage to members of the media only when valid Bucks' press passes are presented. It is impossible to accommodate family members, friends, guests, or others. The professional intent of the room is to provide a meeting and working place for bonafide writers, reporters, broacasters, and game personnel.

* Both the Bucks' and visitors' locker rooms will be open up to 45 minutes before game time and ten minutes after the game. Your cooperation is asked in maintaining a work atmosphere in the locker rooms for post-game interviews. Those newspapers with morning deadlines and TV stations doing live spots should be given preference in obtaining players and coaches. Basically common courtesy should prevail.

* Special instructions for all cameramen can be found on the back of the season photo passes and on the envelopes in which the single game passes are issued.

* Pre-game press notes, lineup and scoring sheets, and the current program insert will be available in the Press Room before the game. Programs will be available on a limited basis. Play-by-play, quarter stats, and half-time box scores will be delivered directly to the press table. Please keep sets quarter-by-quarter. A limited number of play-by-play sheets and halftime boxes will be available in the Press Room after the game. Complete final boxes and fourth quarter play-by-plays will be available after the game in the Press Room.

* The Bucks provide complimentary telecopier service at every home game. Harold Lewis operates the service. Special arrangements to file off day stories or the like can be made through the Bucks publicity office. Any writers who need to rent video relay terminals to file stories, should contact the Bucks publicity office at least one week in advance of the game to secure arrangements.

Cordially,

Bill King II

1982-83 SCHEDULE FORMAT

The 23 teams of the National Basketball Association will operate under an "unbalanced" schedule for the 1982-83 season. The current format calls for each team to play teams within their own conference six times (except two clubs which a team only faces five times), three each at home and on the road.

The current schedule format was adopted by a vote of the NBA Board of Governors the summer of 1979. The schedule is similar to that of the past three seasons when the format was designed to enhance inter-conference rivalries and save on travel expenses. Thus the Bucks remain in the Eastern Conference for the third consecutive year having entered the NBA in 1968 in the east (Phoenix entered the west the same time) and switching to the Western Conference for a short period in between.

Under a timetable begun last season, the schedule will begin and end three weeks later (April 17) than in the past, but the length remains the same — 171 days. All in all, the 23 NBA teams will play 943 regular season contests.

With the addition of the NBA's 23rd franchise, the Dallas Mavericks, two seasons ago, and the subsequent restructuring of the League by division and conference, the Bucks will face their eleven Eastern Conference opponents six times each (except two clubs). Milwaukee will play their Western Conference rivals just twice. The home/road appearances vs. each club will be divided in half.

The Mississippi River is the dividing line separating the Eastern and Western Conferences. In order to determine which teams would play uneven amounts of games against teams within their own conference, the schedule was prepared by assigning teams within a division numbers one through five or one through six. Blind draws were held to assign a team the schedule which corresponds to the number it selected, Milwaukee drew uneven games against Atlanta and New Jersey. The Hawks will visit the Brew City just twice while the Bucks will play the Nets in the Meadowlands Arena two times.

The longest homestand of the season encompasses a five game stretch from December 30 to January 9 against the Mavericks, Rockets, Nets, Pistons, and Suns. The schedule has the Bucks playing at home on 13 Sundays, no Mondays, five Tuesdays, seven Wednesdays, five Thursdays, eight Fridays, and three Saturdays.

The longest road trip of the season encompasses 7 games and occurs just once during the season. From January 26 through February 9, Milwaukee plays at San Diego, Los Angeles, Golden State, Portland, Seattle, Utah, and Cleveland to comprise the longest road trip of the campaign.

The home/road split of games is fairly well balanced except for the months of February and April. By months the club splits their schedule at: October, 1 home and 1 road; November, 7 home and 8 road; December, 9 home and 6 road; January, 8 home and 6 road; February, 4 home and 7 road; March, 9 home and 7 road; and April, 3 home and 6 road.

The lone Arena appearance by the NBA World Champion Los Angeles Lakers will be Wednesday, March 2. Other single stops are to be made by three time NBA scoring champ George Gervin and the San Antonio Spurs on Sunday, December 19 and NBA MVP Moses Malone and the Houston Rockets on Sunday, January 2.

The general rule of thumb for game times in the Milwaukee Arena is: Sunday through Thursdays, 7:30 p.m.; Fridays and Saturdays, 8:00 p.m. The exceptions are six dates, five of which will accommodate ESPN and one for USA Cable. Those possible cable games will tip off at 7:10 p.m. and are, Sunday, November 14 vs. Boston; Sunday, January 2 with Houston; Sunday, January 9 against Phoenix; Sunday, January 16 vs. Golden State; Sunday, April 10 against Chicago; and Thursday, April 14 vs. Washington. Refer to the enclosed schedule for correct times.

A total of 84 League games are scheduled for network television coverage during the regular season, the most in NBA history. CBS Sports will televise four contests, including one on the final day of the season, while the USA Cable Network and ESPN will show 40 games apiece — USA primarily on Thursday nights and ESPN primarily on Sunday nights.

In the friendly confines of the Milwaukee Arena, the Bucks have won over 70% of their games in the fourteen year history of the franchise.

The 33rd annual NBA All-Star Game will be played on Sunday afternoon, February 13, at the Forum in Inglewood, California. And just prior to the start of the regular season, on Tuesday night, October 26, the defending champion Lakers will take on the New Jersey Nets in the annual Hall of Fame Game in Springfield, Massachusetts.

NBA PLAYOFF FORMAT

The winners of the four division races will receive first round byes in the playoffs under the formula approved by the Board of Governors of the National Basketball Association.

Under the 12-team playoff format, the third, fourth, fifth and sixth teams in each conference will take part in the first round.

In that round, all best-of-three series, the team with the third best conference record meets the team with the sixth best record, while the fourth and fifth teams face each other.

The division champions with the best record in their respective conferences will begin play in the next round facing the winner of the series between the fourth and fifth place teams. The other division champion in each conference will go against the winner of the series between the third and sixth clubs. Both series will be the best-of-seven with the winners meeting for the conference championship in another best-of-seven series.

Then, the league championship will be decided in the traditional best-of-seven series between the conference champions.

In all cases, the team with the higher percentage during the season will have the odd game at home.

TIE-BREAKING PROCEDURE FOR PLAYOFFS

Following is the tie-breaking procedure that is used to determine teams qualifying for the 1983 NBA Playoffs.

Two team ties:

1. Results of games against each other.
2. Winning percentage within own conference.
3. Winning percentage within own division (only if tied teams are in same division).
4. Winning percentage against playoff opponents in own conference.
5. Point differential in games against each other.
6. Point differential between offense and defense.

Multiple team ties:

1. Cumulative winning percentage in total games involving all tied teams.
2. Winning percentage within own conference.
3. Winning percentage within own division (only if tied teams are in same division).
4. Winning percentage against playoff opponents in own conference.
5. Point differential between offense and defense.

Notes:

1. Any ties involving the championship of a division are broken first.
2. If a multiple-team tie is reduced to a two-team tie at any point using the above criteria, that situation is then resolved by using the procedures outlined for two team ties.

Magic Number:

To determine the magic number add together the total games remaining for both clubs, divide by two, and subtract the number of games one club leads another by. That figure is for a tie, add one and you get the magic number.

BROADCAST INFORMATION

Radio broadcasts of all Milwaukee Bucks home and away games are originated by WTMJ, Milwaukee's NBA radio affiliate at 620 on the AM dial. Games are fed to a statewide network of over 20 stations throughout Wisconsin and upper Michigan.

Jim Irwin is the "Voice of the Bucks" and will be joined courtside by original Buck Jon McGlocklin for color commentary on 41 home games.

The Milwaukee Bucks and WVTV-Channel 18 will televise 20 road games back to Milwaukee on WVTV-Channel 18 during the 1982-83 regular season. The 20 televised games match the most road games ever carried by Channel 18. The televised games will originate with WVTV-Channel 18, the flagship station of the Bucks television network. Negotiations are ongoing to have the larger television markets throughout the state continue as part of the network during the 1982-83 season.

Tipping off the TV schedule is a Wednesday night game, January 12, from the Spectrum in Philadelphia as the Bucks meet their Eastern Conference arch rivals the Philadelphia 76ers at 6:30 pm.

The January start in programming will enable fans to see 20 of the Bucks final 26 road games of the season. A balance of 10 Eastern Conference teams and 10 Western Conference clubs was struck in designing the television schedule.

Channel 18 will televise five of seven games on the Bucks longest road trip of the season on a western swing starting January 25 in San Diego, the next two nights in Los Angeles and Golden State respectively, and February 1 and 2 at Portland and Seattle.

Highlights of the schedule include a January 26 meeting with the NBA World Champion Los Angeles Lakers, two meetings, on January 12 and March 23, with Eastern Conference Champion Philadelphia, and a February 26 matchup with the Midwest Division title holding San Antonio Spurs and their NBA scoring champ George Gervin.

The Bucks and WVTV are currently in the final year of a 3 year agreement. The pact gives WVTV the rights to air selected road games during the regular season as well as any road playoff contests that are not selected for national network coverage through the NBA television contract with CBS Sports.

Eddie Doucette and Jon McGlocklin will continue to provide play-by-play and color analysis in the coming season. Doucette called the shots for the Bucks for eleven seasons both on radio and television before moving to San Diego and a staff announcing position with USA Network three years ago. He now concentrates on the televised games. McGlocklin is in his seventh season of color commentary, having moved behind the mike in 1976 after retiring as an active player.

SUMMARY OF 1982-83 MAJOR RULES CHANGES

Two minor rules changes have been adopted for the 1982-83 NBA season, both involving throw-ins after a ball goes out of bounds. This season, the team putting the ball in play will have the option of designating which player makes the throw-in, rather than have an official assign that task to a nearby opponent of the player who committed the violation. Also, on a throw-in where the ball goes out of bounds without being touched by a player on the court, the other team will take possession at the original throw-in spot.

Following is the precise wording of the two new rules:

Rule No. 8, Section II, d

"After the ball is out of bounds the team shall designate a player to make the throw-in. He shall make the throw-in at the spot out of bounds nearest where the ball crossed the boundary. The designated thrower-in or his substitute shall not be changed except following a regular or 20-second timeout."

Rule No. 8, Section III, b, Exception

"On a throw-in which is not touched inbounds, the ball is returned to the original throw-in spot."

In addition to the two rules changes noted above, a new, improved tanned orange basketball made by Wilson will serve as the NBA's official ball. Wilson no longer produces the unique brown tanned ball the NBA used in the past. The new model incorporates changes in production prompted by the test clubs gave the ball last year. The new ball is identical to the old model except for the color.

BUCKS SUMMER BASKETBALL CAMPS
Ron Blomberg — Director

The Milwaukee Bucks Summer Basketball Camps program is a unique basketball education program that operates week-long, day and boarding camps for young players aged 8 to 18 throughout the Midwest. In 1981 the summer camps became part of Medalist Industries' Sports Education Division. Ron Blomberg, formerly an administrative assistant and Director of the Milwaukee Bucks Summer Camps joined the Medalist Sports Education staff and continues to direct the Bucks Summer Camps.

The Milwaukee Bucks Camps program began in 1969 and has helped thousands of boys and girls aged 8-18 at campsites throughout the Midwest. The program operated at ten sites and attracted more than 2,500 campers during 20 weeks of basketball instruction in 1982.

Behind the unique camp program is Blomberg who pioneered the summer basketball camp program in Wisconsin. His thorough understanding of the game coupled with his teaching talents, are naturals for the camp program. Since their inception the camps have drawn close to an estimated 35,000.

The consolidation of the Bucks camps ith the Medalist Sports Education Division makes sense. "Combining the strengths of the Medalist and Bucks programs will provide our campers with the best available sports programs offered to young people," said Howard Fagan, Sports Education Division president. "We are obviously pleased to have Ron Blomberg at Medalist because his continuing contribution to the program adds to its success."

Before joining Medalist, Ron had been with the Bucks for over a decade. He has a wealth of experience on which to draw as he coached on the high school level in Wisconsin for 22 years. Ron graduated from the University of Wisconsin and was a member of the varsity basketball squad there for three years. His coaching career began in Peshtigo, Wisconsin, and during his six years there his team notched three basketball championships. He coached 12 years at Brookfield Central High School, in Brookfield, Wisconsin, and coached five league championship squads there. His 1964-65 team placed fourth in the Wisconsin state tournament.

As a clinic speaker and general lecturer, Ron is much in demand to service clubs in and around the Milwaukee area. Nicknamed "The Professor" several years ago while performing the color commentary for the Bucks radio broadcasts, Ron occasionally steps behind the mike on various pro, college, and high school games.

This season he joins Ted Moore behind the mike in providing color analysis for the University of Wisconsin radio broadcasts.

MECCA'S GEOMETRIC COURT
Designed by Robert Indiana

The design on the court you see before you was developed by Robert Indiana. Indiana has said of himself, "I am an American painter of signs charting the course. I would be a people's painter as well as a painter's painter."

Succinctly he has explained his aims, and at the same time the reasons for his success, of which there can be no doubt. Since his first art show in 1960, Mr. Indiana's art has been seen and acclaimed internationally. The floor design along with LeRoy Nieman's "Basketball Superstars" painting for the 1977 All-Star Game in Milwaukee is the second major piece of art nationally recognized to have originated from Milwaukee.

Robert Indiana has established a lasting reputation as an artist who paints America. He paints about his country, its people, and about himself; as well as about the traditions and cultures we all know. Because his art speaks of the nature of our land and the American people, Robert Indiana is destined to be among the great American masters such as Winslow Homer, Thomas Eakins, and Edward Hooper.

Indiana is one of the leaders of the Pop Art movement of the 1960's and 70's. The trademarks of his art are the lettered signs, directional symbols, commercial illustrations, precise shapes, and intensely active colors. His art has been referred to as American as apple pie. He deals with signs of life in both vocabulary and form. Like highway signs, his paintings are geometric shapes with bright, bold numbers and letters upon them. LOVE is perhaps his most famous series of paintings.

Claiming the same hometown as former Buck Kent Benson in New Castle, Indiana, Mr. Indiana's works are on display across the country, and such institutions as the Carnegie Institute of Arts in Pittsburgh, the Chicago Museum of Contemporary Art, the Metropolitseum of Art in New York City, Yale and Princeton Universities, and the Milwaukee Art Center all own works by Indiana. Previously Indiana has been commissioned to redesign the U.S. one cent piece by ART IN AMERICA, to create a mural for the New York State Pavilion at the New York World's Fair, and by the United States Government to design a Special Stamp for Someone Special in the denomination of 8 cents and issued originally in Philadelphia in 1973 to name a few prominent works.

Robert Indiana has lived and worked in New York since 1954.

The court itself is the same that has been in use during past seasons. Before being painted, it was completely refinished and sealed. Indiana did not actually paint the court, that task was contracted to a local sign painting company. Indiana signed the court of the southwest corner with a can of spray paint and a specially prepared stencil. Mr. Indiana also designed the banners that hang above the upper parquet around the Arena. The colors will also be picked up in the outer lobbies as MECCA plans to refurbish those facilities. Total cost of the project approaches $40,000 with a portion of that to be recouped by the sale of banners and posters similar to those in the Arena.

Kareem and Commissioner Kennedy

On October 16, 1968, before a crowd of 8,467 at the Milwaukee Arena, the Milwaukee Bucks made their National Basketball Association debut. The Chicago Bulls, however, won 89-84. The Bucks first win came in their sixth game, a 134-118 victory over Detroit on October 31, 1968. The Bucks went on to win 27 games and lose 55 in their first season, but set a home attendance record for a first year team, averaging 6,246 fans at the Arena. Guard Jon McGlocklin led the team in scoring with a 19.6 average; forward Greg Smith was the leading rebounder, and guard Guy Rodgers was the playmaker.

The Bucks last place finish in the East Division and the last place finish in the West by the other expansion team, the Phoenix Suns, qualified the two teams for a coin flip to determine rights to the number one choice in the college draft. On March 19, 1969, NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy flipped the coin. Phoenix chose heads, the coin came up tails, and on April 2, 1969 the Bucks signed 7-2 Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of UCLA.

Abdul-Jabbar became an instant superstar, teaming with McGlocklin, Smith, rookie Bob Dandridge and Flynn Robinson in leading the Bucks from the cellar spot to a runner-up place in the East. The Bucks won 56 and lost 26 that year and then defeated the Philadelphia 76ers in five games. 360,650 fans watched the Bucks at the Milwaukee Arena, an average of 9,490 per game. Following the season, the Bucks made their biggest trade — getting All-Pro Guard Oscar Robertson from Cincinnati for Flynn Robinson and Charlie Paulk. Just prior to the start of the 1970-71 season, Bob Boozer and Lucius Allen were acquired from Seattle for Don Smith.

With Kareem, Robertson, McGlocklin, Dandridge and Smith forming the starting five and Boozer, Allen and Dick Cunningham providing backup, the Bucks ran away with the Midwest Division in the newly aligned four division league setup. The Bucks won 66 and lost only 16 games, in the process setting six league records; home wins, 34; road wins, 28; field goal percentage, .509; field goals, 3972; and assists, 2249. In a playoff competition the Bucks dispatched San Francisco and Los Angeles in five game series and then blasted Baltimore four straight for the World's Championship, only the second time in league history that the title series ended so quickly. In winning the World's Championship, the Bucks had come further, faster, than any expansion team in the history of major professional sports.

Abdul-Jabbar

In 1971-72 the Bucks made the playoffs for the third straight year, winning the Midwest Division for the second year in a row. The Bucks elevated Wayne Embry to the general manager post and named William Alverson, a legal advisor to the club since its beginning, president in March, 1972.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar earned the league's MVP honor for the second straight year, averaging 34.8 points per game and leading the NBA in that department. The Bucks found defense of their World Championship title difficult. The Bucks disposed of Golden State in five games. The "super series" for the Western Conference championship matched the Bucks against the Los Angeles Lakers, a contingent that had run a 33 game winning streak during the season before being derailed by the Bucks on January 9. The Bucks battled the Lakers in six exciting games before falling four games to two.

Kareem and Big O

The Bucks completed the 1972-73 season with a 60-22 record, the only NBA team in history to post sixty or more wins in three consecutive seasons. The sixty wins were posted despite an unusual season which found the Bucks plagued by injuries. Coach Larry Costello had his full roster available for barely more than half of the 82 game schedule. The Bucks finished the year with an NBA record of 14 straight victories to end the season, and entered the first round of the playoffs against Golden State. Possibly wearied by the whirlwind of winning the 14 games and the final race with the Lakers for the Western Conference title, the Bucks were surprised by a deep Golden State Team, and fell 4-2 in the opening round.

The Bucks were one game short of their fourth consecutive season with 60 regular season wins or more in 1973-74, finishing the season with a 59-23 record. Numerous injuries during the season often put the Bucks in a manpower shortage situation, but the club rallied to offset the absence of various players at different times of the year. The most serious injury sidelined Lucius Allen for the last few games of the season and all of the playoffs. Allen tore a cartilage in his knee in a game March 15 in Detroit, and underwent surgery the following day. The Bucks again topped the Midwest Division and eliminated Los Angeles 4-1 in the playoffs and dispatched Chicago without delay 4-0. In the championship round against Boston, the Bucks faced a troublesome press that continually dogged their game. The series was highlighted by a double-overtime sixth game which the Bucks won in Boston, to knot the series at 3-3. In the NBA Championship round's final seventh game, the Bucks were defeated by the Celts 102-87.

In 1974-75 the Bucks endured what might have been their most frustrating season on record. A pre-season broken hand kept Kareem Abdul-Jabbar sidelined for the first sixteen games of the season and the club was 3-13, putting themselves too far behind Midwest Division rivals to ever recover. A mid-season knee injury to All Star guard Jim Price sidelined him for the last half of the season. Kareem, Price and Bob Dandridge were named to the All Star team, the first time in club history that three members had been named to the honor squad. Although the Costello trademark of defense was upheld (the club's allowance of 100.7 points per game was the fifth best in the league), their 38-44 record put them in last place in the Midwest Division. The club's longest winning streak of the year was five games, and the team stayed in contention for the wild card playoff berth until the last week of the season. The Bucks lost 18 games during this fretful year by five points or less, and 11 of those losses were by three points or fewer. Kareem was third in the NBA in scoring while Bob Dandridge finished 18th with a 19.9 point per game clip.

On June 16, 1975 the Bucks executed one of the most momentous trades in pro basketball history by sending Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and reserve center Walt Welsey to the Los Angeles Lakers in exchange for center Elmore Smith, guard Brian Winters, and two All-American rookies, David Meyers and Junior Bridgeman. The Milwaukee Bucks entered the 1975-76 season with a new, young running team, perhaps the youngest in the NBA.

Jon McGlocklin

The young talent faltered at first, losing the first five games of the season before posting a win over Detroit on November 4, 1975. As the season progressed, all four players obtained from Los Angeles for Abdul-Jabbar proved to make important contributions. Smith became a consistent performer at center, leading the team in rebounding during the season with a 11.4 per game average. Brian Winters put his marksmanship to work to average over 18 points per game and make the NBA West All Stars. Winters started in all 78 games he played. Bridgeman played both guard and forward well, started in 19 games and averaged over 20 minutes per game. Meyers showed outstanding rebound potential, banging the boards hard in 34 starts at the strong forward slot. Slowed by a knee injury, he rallied to have an outstanding playoff series against Detroit.

The Bucks posted a 38-44 record in 1975-76, identical to that achieved by the Los Angeles Lakers and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. Bob Dandridge was named to the NBA West All Stars and had his best season ever, averaging 21.5 points per game while ranking among the top ten scorers in the league. The Bucks finished first in the Midwest Division for the fifth time in eight seasons. The Milwaukeeans were beat in the first round of the best-of-three playoff series 2-1 by Detroit. Coach Larry Costello signed a new two year pact just prior to the playoffs. In the 1976 college draft the Bucks selected Indiana All American and U.S. Olympian Quinn Buckner in the first round.

Bob Dandridge

The 1976-77 season saw a major shakeup within the organization. Just 18 games into the season Larry Costello resigned as Head Coach and Don Nelson took over the reigns. Other changes came about involving the club's management structure. A group headed by James F. Fitzgerald, William J. Blake and J. P. Cullen and Son Corporation purchased 361,000 outstanding shares of Milwaukee Professional Sports and Services common stock. Mr. Fitzgerald became Chairman of the Board and President of the corporation. Wayne Embry, formerly General Manager of the club, became a consultant thus relinquishing his duties on a day-to-day basis. What were formerly Embry's duties were then split between Don Nelson who handles player personnel matters and John Steinmiller who was promoted to Director of Business Operations in charge of the day-to-day functions of the club. On the court Bob Dandridge turned in a solid performance averaging 20.8 points over the season. Brian Winters and Junior Bridgeman also averaged in double figures as did Sven Nater who was traded to Cleveland which gave Milwaukee the first round draft choice they used to obtain Marques Johnson. Record-wise the 1976-77 season was a meager 30 wins against 52 losses. But to offset that mark was perhaps the best draft by any professional team in history. Behind the direction of Rick Sund, Don Nelson, and Wayne Embry the club drafted and subsequently signed three first round choices in Kent Benson, Marques Johnson, and Ernie Grunfeld. John Killilea, once a scout for the Bucks and more recently assistant coach of the Boston Celtics, joined Don Nelson in the coaching ranks as assistant coach and assistant Director of Player Personnel.

The 1977-78 season parlayed an exceptional draft of Benson, Johnson, and Grunfeld along with veterans Bridgeman, Buckner, Meyers, and Winters into an exciting season for a young team that as of yet did not have valuable playoff experience. Milwaukee finished the regular season with a 44-38 record. The fate of the playoff hopeful Bucks hinged upon Seattle beating Golden State on the final game of the 902 game NBA regular season schedule. The scene was a frustrating one for the Bucks as players, coaches, and fans alike stood anxiously by listening to the radio for a special play-by-play feed of the Sonics-Warriors game. Everyone felt helpless as their fate rested with a game they weren't playing. Seattle defeated Golden State sending the Bucks to pack the bathing suits in Milwaukee to head for Phoenix. Milwaukee swept the Suns 2-0 in the mini-series advancing to the Midwest Division final. It took Denver a tough seven games and the home court advantage to defeat Milwaukee and end a championship dream for the "Green and Growing" Bucks.

The image the Bucks created that year was one of youth and hope. The first full season under Don Nelson saw some changes, not all of which were on the court. The Bucks adopted their new familiar three-toned green striping on their uniforms and other paraphenalia, came out with a 45 record entitled Green and Growing, and numerous other exciting concepts. The result of all this could be felt at the gate where the Bucks averaged 10,711.15 fans (.97012%) to top their all time attendance records. Also that year the Bucks set an all time NBA record winning eight overtime games.

In the next season, 1978-79, everyone expected Milwaukee to surpass their successes of the previous year. What with the core of the 1977-78 team intact, it was an easy assumption to make. But before the season began a vital cog on the Bucks club was lost. Alex English went to the Indiana Pacers via the free agent market. Then Dave Meyers was lost for all 82 games of the regular season due to a back injury. Those losses coupled with a few key injuries, saw the Bucks reversing their 44-38 record of the prior year to 38-44 and missing a playoff berth.

There were some bright spots however. Marques Johnson was named to the NBA All-Star team receiving more fan votes than any other player in the Western Conference. Later, Johnson was named to the NBA All-League team as a first team forward. Marques finished third in the NBA in scoring with a 25.6 average which was highest among all forwards and centers in the league. Junior Bridgeman finished the season with a 15.5 average, tops among all regular sixth men in the league. Kent Benson improved greatly over his rookie campaign while Brian Winters had his best scoring season ever. The Bucks 38-44 record placed them tied at third with Indiana in the Midwest Division. The club came on strong towards the end and won 16 of their last 26 games (.615%) including 6 wins in their last 9 road games. Milwaukee also shattered the NBA assist record with 2,562 on the year for a 31.2 average. The total attendance mark of 443,926 broke all the records set one season before. The marks include 32 sellouts, an average of 10,827, and a capacity of 99%.

The Bucks rebounded with another Midwest Division title during the 1979-80 campaign, posting a 49-33 record to squeeze out the Kansas City Kings by two games. The title qualified Milwaukee for its eighth playoff appearance in the club's twelve year history. It was a season of highs and lows as the Bucks sprinted to an early lead with an NBA high of ten consecutive victories only to lose six straight in December to close the cushion. Compounding the losing skid was the sidelining of Quinn Buckner with a recurring hamstring problem. By January the division lead swayed to Kansas City.

The All-Star break, highlighted by Marques Johnson's second straight starting role for the west squad, marked a turnaround for Milwaukee as Detroit dealt big Bob Lanier to the Bucks for Kent Benson and a number one draft choice. Lanier's inside scoring punch combined with Marques Johnson's outside touch vaulted the club into the winner's circle of 11 of the next 13 contests. All told, the club went 20-6 following the break and reclaimed the division lead for good in mid-March. Defense played a major role in that comeback, forcing the second place Kings into a NBA season low 72 points February 24 and Golden State into a League low third quarter total of 10 points March 8.

Milwaukee drew defending champion Seattle in the playoffs, eventually falling in the seventh and final contest at the Kingdome. The series was marked by an NBA record crowd (40,172) in Game #5 amd a Bucks' record-low first half point production (35) in Game #6. Games #1 and #2 were both highlighted by overtime play, the clubs each taking one contest. Seattle went on to play the eventual NBA champion Los Angeles Lakers for the Western Conference Championship.

The Bucks finished the 1980-81 season with a 60-22 record to become the 19th team in the history of the NBA to reach the magical 60 win plateau. It marked the fourth time in 13 seasons the club won 60 or more games. That record was attained by matching the club record for home court wins set during the championship year of 1970-71 with a 34-7 mark. On the road the club posted a 25-16 record, the best in eight seasons by Milwaukee and second to Boston in 1980-81. Also, Milwaukee became the 17th team in NBA history to lose no more than two games consecutively. Streaks were common for the team during the season. They ran off 10 in a row early in the season, 11 straight road games, and 16 in a row in the Arena. Also on the numbers front, the Bucks averaged 113.1 ppg — tops in the Eastern Conference — and allowed 105.9 ppg for an average margin of victory of 7.2 points per game. By virtue of their 60-22 record, the Bucks ran away with the Central Division title while earning a first round playoff bye.

Philadelphia earned the right to meet Milwaukee in the playoffs. For the Bucks it proved to be a virtual replay of previous playoff series under the Nelson regime. The club again was without the home court advantage and lost in the seventh game of the series to Philadelphia in the Spectrum by one point.

The Bucks captured their third straight division title ending the 1981-82 season with a 55-27 mark to top the Central Division. It marked the second straight Central Division title and third consecutive division title. It was also the second straight year Milwaukee posted the largest season-ending division lead in the NBA (13 games). To have such a successful season, Milwaukee had to overcome such adversities as an 18 game holdout by All-Star Marques Johnson at the start of the season and weather the storm of 114 player games missed due to injury necessitating 15 different starting lineups. Sidney Moncrief was unwrapped and his performance landed him a berth on the All-Star squad. Center Bob Lanier played in all but eight games and recorded more minutes played than all but two teammates. He too was named to the All-Star squad. Statistically, Milwaukee's 5.5 ppg winning margin ranked third in the League, 102.9 points defensively was 4th in the NBA, .505 team FG% was second best of any Milwaukee team, and a mid-season skein of 12 straight set a then NBA season mark.

Again Philadelphia earned the right to meet Milwaukee in the playoffs, but this time the short-handed Bucks succumbed to the Sixers in six games. Philadelphia went on to win the Eastern Conference championship before losing to the Los Angeles Lakers for the NBA title.

REBOUND — Highlights From The 1981-82 Season

BUCKS, SPURS MAKE HISTORY WITH 337 POINTS

In what has been classified as one of the NBA's All-Time most exciting games, the San Antonio Spurs beat the Milwaukee Bucks, 171-166, in three overtime periods March 6, 1982 in San Antonio.

The Central and Midwest Division leaders racked up the most points ever scored in the 36-year history of the NBA and in the process rewrote the record books to the tune of seven NBA records and seven Bucks club records. The combined score of 337 points broke the NBA record of 316 set 20 years ago on March 2, 1962, when Philadelphia beat New York 169-147 (in Wilt Chamberlain's famed 100-point game) and tied on March 12, 1970, when Cincinnati defeated San Diego 165-151, both in regulation time.

The final stats showed that the game epitomized NBA basketball in terms of excitement and entertainment. Both teams shot brilliantly, the Spurs connecting on 68 of 116 from the field for .586% and the Bucks converting 68 of 111 for .613%.

MONCRIEF RECORDS RARE TRIPLE

Sidney Moncrief, the Milwaukee Bucks' All-Star guard, was the first player since Dave Cowens during the 1977-78 season with the Boston Celtics to lead his club in average points, rebounds, and assists. Bill Walton led Portland in those three categories by average in the same year, but because he missed 24 games due to injury, he did not lead the Trail Blazers in total assists.

MONCRIEF AND BROADCASTER JIM IRWIN COVERBOYS JOIN LANIER AS FEATURE SUBJECTS IN MAJOR PUBLICATIONS

The image of Sidney Moncrief adorning the front cover of Sports Illustrated's February 22 issue this season was still fresh in our minds when Bucks' broadcaster Jim Irwin followed up with his own cover story in the April issue of Wisconsin Athlete Magazine. Moncrief was also featured on the cover of the March issue of Basketball Digest. Together the pair join Bob Lanier as feature subjects in major publications this season. The January issue of Inside Sports magazine sat down with the Dobber for an in-depth look at the Bucks' intriguing president of the NBA Player's Association.

FITZGERALD UNDERGOES SUCCESSFUL HEART SURGERY

After suffering a mild heart attack on November 17, 1981 in Janesville, Wisconsin, Bucks' Chairman of the Board and President Jim Fitzgerald was counseled by his medical advisors to undergo heart surgery. The heart surgery, in which a double bypass was performed, occured January 13, 1982 and lasted approximately four hours.

The operation went as expected by the surgical team at Milwaukee's St. Luke's Hospital. Following a few days at St. Luke's, Fitzgerald spent some time in Janesville before recuperating in the warmer climate of Palm Springs, California.

LANIER & MONCRIEF STAND OUT IN ALL-STAR GAME

Bob Lanier, making his eighth appearance as an NBA All-Star, and Sidney Moncrief, making his initial appearance in the mid-season classic, both had solid performances in a winning effort for the East All-Stars on Jan. 31. Moncrief was the first substitute for the East and scored 6 points while grabbing 4 rebounds in 22 minutes. Lanier was the first center off the bench and scored 8 points and grabbed 3 rebounds in 11 minutes of action while also blocking one shot.

The game was the first-ever sellout of a basketball game in the Byrne Meadowlands Arena with a crowd of 20,149 on hand to see the East run its winning streak to three consecutive games.

MACC FUND TELETHON ENJOYS SUCCESSFUL TELECAST WITH HELP OF BUCKS

The Midwest Athletes Against Childhood Cancer Fund presented a live, evening long television fund-raiser for the first time on local television December 19, 1981 on WTMJ-TV Channel 4. The program, called MACCATHON raised money to aid the Midwest Children's Cancer Center at Milwaukee's Children's Hospital.

A number of Bucks manned the phones accepting pledges. Don Nelson, Wayne Embry, Brian Winters, Junior Bridgeman, and Quinn Buckner all worked the VIP phones. Meanwhile, Mike Evans and Alton Lister competed in the whitewater inner-tube race at the YMCA/Walter Schroeder Aquatic Center while Harvey Catchings and Sidney Moncrief raced through the whitewater in a raft. While that was going on Pat Cummings and Mickey Johnson posed as celebrity judges for the dance contest at Red Carpet Lanes.

The evening raised over $70,000 in support of MACC Fund efforts.

LANIER SELECTED 1981 JACKIE ROBINSON AWARD WINNER

Bob Lanier of the Milwaukee Bucks was selected the 1981 Jackie Robinson Award Winner by the YMCA of Buffalo and Erie County in the State of New York. Lanier was presented with the award at the 130th Annual Dinner of the YMCA January 19, 1982 in Buffalo.

Lanier was selected for the honor because of his contributions to interracial understanding, service to youth and leadership understanding. It is another in a long line of honors bestowed upon Lanier which include the Professional Basketball Writer's Association Walter Kennedy Citizenship Award in 1978 for humanitarianism.

Past Jackie Robinson Award Winners have been Bill Cosby, Howard Cosell, Art Linkletter, Arthur Ashe, Ron Jaworski, Jim McMillian, and Willie Stargell.

BIG O — FIRST BUCK INDUCTED INTO HALL OF FAME

The game of basketball is perhaps the most beautiful of American games, almost poetic in its presentation and infinite in its excitement. Its performers, too, are something to behold. They are to many the world's finest athletes because they are the most graceful, the most talented . . . and most could have gone into any sport outside of basketball and succeeded. The game itself is relatively simple, though on certain levels, such as in the NBA, the mind must function as well as the body does.

NBA basketball especially is a game that matches the very best basketball players in the world against each other. These are men who run the fastest, are the best ballhandlers, can pass with accuracy, play superb defense and provide deadly scoring from almost any spot on the basketball court.

As with anything in life, there will always be those who rise above the "normal" level of talent; those who, because of their brilliance, become legends in the professions they have chosen. In basketball, such a legend is the man they call the "Big O" — OSCAR PALMER ROBERTSON. It defies logic to believe that there will again be one like him, that some kid now toiling on the playground somewhere in America will be able to put it all together and handle every phase of basketball as exceptionally as Robertson has. That just does not seem possible.

Acknowledged by his peers as one of the finest all-around players in basketball history, Robertson became the first Milwaukee Buck to be inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Massachusetts on April 28, 1980.

An 11-time NBA All-Star, Oscar was named the League's Most Valuable Player three times.

"Big O" was a three time All-American at Cincinnati University. Although the 6'5" picture of grace never was on a national championship team, his Cincinnati Bearcats had successive seasons of 25-3, 26-4 and 28-2 records.

Starting his glorious pro career in the 1960-61 season with the Cincinnati Royals, Robertson went on to become the game's most admired performer. "He was the only player who gave a clinic every time he stepped onto the floor," said a veteran NBA observer.

"Oscar will go down in history as one of the true great guards that ever played the game," said Boston Celtics General Manager Red Auerbach. After a long career with Cincinnati, Robertson was traded to the Milwaukee Bucks where in 1971 he helped the team to the NBA World Championship.

Big O scored his 25,000th career point while playing for the Bucks in a game against the New York Knicks December 1, 1972 in Milwaukee. In 14 pro seasons he scored 26,710 points and established the all-time record for assists in the NBA (9,887) and for Milwaukee (2,156).

OSCAR P. ROBERTSON 1938- ELECTED 1979 — PLAYER

Born in Charlotte, TN; graduated Crispus Attucks H.S. (Indianapolis, IN) 1956; University of Cincinnati, 1960. All-time All-State in Indiana; Indiana Player-of-Year 1956, as team won two State Titles. During historic college career at U-C, was All-American three years; Player of the Year two years; major college scoring leader three years; established 14 NCAA records. Oscar was on Pan American Champion Team 1959 and Co-Captain of Olympic Champions 1960 in Rome. MILWAUKEE BUCKS BOARD OF DIRECTORS

James Fitzgerald
Chairman of the Board and President
by Gregg Hoffman

You can't keep a good man down for long.

That old adage certainly is true about Jim Fitzgerald, Chairman of the Board and President of the Milwaukee Bucks.

About 9:30 a.m., Nov. 17, 1981, Fitzgerald started having some pain from what he thought was a hiatal hernia. At first he thought it would pass, but instead it persisted.

Finally, on the urging of his son, Brian, he went to the hospital. The diagnosis: heart attack.

Tests were run, and in January Fitzgerald underwent a double by-pass heart operation.

But, after a few months of recuperation in Palm Springs, Fitzgerald was back in Milwaukee in time to watch the Bucks in the playoffs. He is playing golf whenever he can and has lost none of his zeal or dedication to the cause of making the Bucks an exciting, championship team.

"As I look at the heart attack now, it might have been a blessing in disguise," Fitzgerald said. "It got me off the cigarettes and made me realize I had to start taking better care of myself.

"I feel better than I have in years. I really think that problem had been creeping up on me for quite some time.

"My only regret is that I won't be able to attend as many games in person this year. You see, I get very emotionally involved in the games, and my doctor says I have to still take it a little easy.

"He said if Nellie can assure me that the Bucks will win every game by 20 points, I can go to them all. Of course, that will be tough to guarantee, so I'll have to miss a few games this year."

Even though his familiar seat seven rows behind the Bucks bench might be empty a few times this season, you can bet Fitz, as he's called by people who know him best, will remain dedicated to the Bucks. Ever since another November day in 1976, when he took over controlling interest of the team, Fitzgerald has been dedicated to making the Bucks a winner.

"My personal goal is to put together the most exciting team possible, and my reward will be to watch us build a champion," Fitzgerald said at the time of that takeover.

In the past six years, he has done just what he said he would. The Bucks have become an exciting basketball team, and while Fitzgerald has not been rewarded with an NBA championship, the Bucks have won their division the past three years and are on the threshold of the big one.

"We are so close," Fitzgerald said of the Bucks' fight for a title. "About all I can say is that everybody in the organization is dedicated to doing everything we can to bringing a championship to Milwaukee.

"Everybody — Nellie, Steiny (Bucks vice-president of Business operations, John Steinmiller), the players and others — wants to make the Bucks a champion."

Fitzgerald also has proven to the skeptics that he is dedicated to seeing the Bucks remain a Milwaukee team.

"If there's one thing that has struck me more than anything else, it's the fact that the Milwaukee fans are just great," he said. The Milwaukee fans have instincts and insights far ahead of those in other cities. We've worked hard to relate to the market in the best possible way and the fans understand that.

"There's a certain awareness — the average fan understands what we're trying to do. As long as people in our organization can relate to the average fan, he'll support us."

At the same time, Milwaukee is one of the smallest markets in the NBA, and the Arena is the smallest facility in the League.

Fitzgerald has tried to stay out of the political battle over a possible new Arena, saying the Bucks would love a new facility, but adding that "we don't want taxpayers or anyone else building it just for the Bucks."

Meanwhile, he has taken steps to combat the problems that a small market faces. Prime among those steps was the formation with the Milwaukee Brewers of the Wisconsin All Sports Network Inc., a regional cable television network scheduled to begin fullscale operation in late summer of 1983.

"I'm extremely excited about the Wisconsin All Sports Network," said Fitzgerald, who brings years of experience in cable television to the venture through Total TV of Janesville and other companies in Illinois and Florida.

"The Milwaukee Bucks currently are one of the National Basketball Association's premier clubs. The leased channel method of delivery for Bucks games is the best way for us to maintain our edge in competing with the larger market teams."

Revenue from the cable operation will supplement gate receipts and should enable the Bucks to compete for talent against teams from New York, L.A. and other larger cities.

"We see a secondary revenue from cable television as benefiting the fans because we'll be able to get a handle on ticket prices," Fitzgerald said. "Talent comes very expensive today. To stay competitive, you have to have the revenue coming in."

While he might have to miss a few games during the year, Fitzgerald has vowed to maintain his open policy with the players.

"I've always gone into the locker room after the games," he said. "Some of my peers don't think I should mix with the players, but I can tell what's going on with the team better that way."

This open attitude also has filtered down throughout the Bucks' organization and has made for a closeness and cohesiveness.

In addition to his Bucks duties, Fitzgerald has been involved with various NBA committees, including the all important television committee.

Jim and his wife, Marilyn, are the parents of six children, ranging in age from 19 to 30. All but the youngest, Ellen, who attends school in New Jersey, are married. Son Mike and daughter Carolyn live in Janesville, and Marcia resides in Madison. Brian and Jim Jr. are employed by Total TV and live in Janesville and West Allis respectively.

Wayne Embry
Vice President and Consultant

When the newly-formed Milwaukee Bucks were piecing together the maiden team in 1968, big Wayne Embry was tabbed to fill the middle. At 6-8, 250 pounds, perhaps nobody at the time clogged the middle — literally — better than Embry. While playing in his 11th — and last — season of his professional basketball career with the expansion Bucks, Embry was the classy, All-Pro type of player the young franchise needed to gain respect in the National Basketball Association.

Now, 14 years later, Embry is still a big man in the Bucks' organization. Although his hair is turning gray, and his imposing frame has to be careful of not becoming even more imposing, the former NBA standout now serves as Vice-President and Consultant of the team. Three years ago he was named to the Board of Directors of the Bucks. From his spot at pivot, Wayne made stops as player personnel director and general manager in the 14-year history of the club before assuming his current role with the team.

While celebrating a quarter-century of professional basketball involvement this year, Embry left his full-time position with the Bucks a few years ago in favor of outside business interests. Together with Sherman Claypool, they formed a corporation that operates three area McDonald's restaurants located on North Avenue, Capitol Drive and across from the Arena on State Street.

Although Embry spends more time around fast foods than fast breaks these days, he hasn't let his business interests get in the way of the game he loves. A regular observer at Bucks' home games, Wayne closely examines the quality of the organization which he has helped to develop during his climb up the Bucks' administrative ladder.

"We try to emphasize that we want to draft players with character," says Embry. "Maybe some of the players with a little less ability but who are willing to sacrifice and develop a team concept. The team is an extension of the people putting it together, to a degree. We want to put together a team that represents Milwaukee well, win or lose. I'm very proud of the players we now have. I beleive they are capable of winning, eventually even winning the championship. They have the reputation for being class human beings. Whether they're playing basketball, or whatever they are doing, they will do it well and with a lot of class."

Speaking of doing things with class, the Springfield, Ohio, native enjoys helping people in the community where he stays quite active throughout the year. Besides his business interests and his position on the Milwaukee Bucks' Board of Directors, Embry also serves on the board for Children's Hospital and St. Mary's Hill Hospital.

Despite his dominating size for football, Wayne played that sport for only one year while attending high school in Springfield in order to devote more time to becoming a better basketball player. Embry went on to star as a prep player, before moving on to Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. He was selected in the 1958 draft by the St. Louis Hawks, but was dealt to the Cincinnati Royals before ever playing a minute for the Hawks. Big Wayne proved to be a valuable acquisition for the now-defunct Royals, playing eight seasons that included five playoff appearances and five All-Star games. Embry averaged 13 points per contest and was regarded as an excellent rebounder in spite of his short height for a center, by NBA standards. "I was shorter than most centers, but I tried to make up for it with strength and intelligence."

In 1966, Embry was traded to the Boston Celtics, where he spent most of the next two seasons backing up Bill Russell and was part of the Celtic's 1967-68 Championship team.

The Bucks tabbed Embry in the 1968 expansion draft. "Coming to Milwaukee and an expansion franchise was a different experience, although my first couple of years at Cincinnati were almost like playing for an expansion team," Embry recalls. "Playing here was interesting. We had a blend of veteran players and some young guys.

Wayne averaged 13.1 points and 8.6 rebounds during his one-year stint with Milwaukee. He went into retirement and returned to Boston to take a job as that city's recreation director. That lasted one year before the Bucks lured him back to Milwaukee.

Besides Jon McGlocklin and Eddie Doucette, Embry is the only other charter member of the franchise still active within the organization. The Embry family consists of wife Terri, daughters Debbie, 21; Jill, 20; and Wayne Jr., 17.

John Steinmiller
Vice-President—Business Operations
by Gregg Hoffman

Every team needs a playmaker, the guy who may not grab the headlines but directs the operations of the team.

Oscar Robertson was the preeminent maestro on a basketball court. And in the front office, John Steinmiller could be credited with that role.

As Vice-President—Business Operations, the 33 year-old Steinmiller handles a variety of nuts and bolts business duties for the Bucks. He is the playmaker of the business portion of the team — the part that may not be as visible as the on-court activities, but is every bit as essential.

Steinmiller likes the variety and challenge of his job.

"Ultimately, there always has to be a challenge in one's job and I have plenty," he said. "I constantly try to satisfy myself and others with the job I do. It gives me a daily dose of reality with the highs and lows that come with winning and losing. In the long run, it helps me get a hold on life and makes winning that much sweeter. Sports is not all flash and fun, there's a daily business and detail of it that requires an awful lot of hard work."

But, hard work is something that goes along with the territory, in Steinmiller's opinion.

"I think you have to work as hard as possible, giving a maximum effort, and being aware of the No. 1 goal — being a winner. A winner on the court is always reflected in the front office. I try to impress upon all of our employees that their individual jobs are very important."

Steinmiller's introduction to the hard work of the sports business came while he was in his senior year at Marquette University, when he handled a variety of chores part-time in the Bucks office.

After graduating from Marquette in 1970, with a bachelor's degree in journalism, Steinmiller became an administrative assistant, handling duties ranging from ticket sales to publicity work.

In 1972, at the age of 22, he became the youngest publicity director in pro sports. He held that position with the Bucks until 1977 when he was promoted to handle the team's business operations. In 1980, he was named to his current position.

Steinmiller credits some people who took the time to help "the kid" in those early years for his rather quick rise in the Bucks franchise.

"I had mentors in this business — Wayne Embry, (former Bucks publicist) Jim Foley and Cathy Bartley. They were very encouraging, open, helpful and supportive. I guess that, coupled with my own motivation and common sense, has largely influenced my success."

Despite the fact the Bucks play in the smallest facility in the league, they have remained competitive at the box office because of a 99 percent plus occupancy rate for home games. That is something Steinmiller and his staff work hard to attain.

"Those record sellouts don't just happen spontaneously," he says. "We plan, project and sell with a record turnout in mind every season."

A native of Mt. Prospect, Illinois, John has become very active in the Milwaukee community. The Steinmiller family consists of wife Corinne and year-old son, John. Steinmiller has been active as secretary-treasurer of the Midwest Athletes Against Childhood Cancer (MACC) Fund, a member of the Sales and Marketing Executives of Milwaukee and as a Board Member of the Big Brothers-Big Sisters program in Milwaukee.

Steinmiller also makes frequent appearances at service club meetings, banquets and other events as part of his job with the Bucks.

Don Nelson
Head Coach and Director of Player Personnel
by Ross M. Worzalla

When asked recently to evaluate himself as a coach as he enters his seventh season with the Milwaukee Bucks, Don Nelson said simply, "I think I'm a good coach — let's leave it at that. I'm not great, and I'm not bad. But the whole league is pretty well-coached."

While it's true that there are other fine coaches in the National Basketball Association, you'd be hard pressed to find many better than Nelson. Anybody that knows — or at least has watched — "Nellie" since he took control of the team seven years ago, would probably not regard him as a flashy, boisterous type of coach. While many of today's NBA coaches fit into that mold, Don quietly goes about his business — winning.

And win the Bucks have under Nelson, capturing three straight division titles in the last three seasons while making the playoffs four times in his five full seasons as a head coach.

Former Boston Celtic coaching great, and now the Celts' general manager, Red Auerbach, envisioned Nelson's future as Nellie's playing days were coming near an end in 1976. "Don Nelson is a thinking man's ballplayer," said Auerbach. "I think he'll be a helluva coach in this league if he decides to try it."

Following a brilliant 14-year career in the NBA, Nelson did get his chance to coach when the Milwaukee Bucks promoted him from assistant to head coach when Larry Costello resigned 18 games into the 1976-77 season. Now, six years later, although not ready to be mentioned in the same breath with Auerbach, Nellie's influence as coach has played a key role in the development of the Bucks as one of the powerhouses in the NBA.

Donald Arvid Nelson traces his coaching philosophies back to those which he learned as a Celtic playing for Auerbach. "My concept of coaching revolves around teamwork," says Nelson. "Red influenced me the most dating back to my younger days as a Celtic. Red always shared his ideas and concepts, was successful in what he did, and was respected for what he did. And to me, respect is probably the most important. As a coach, I may not be liked, but respect of my players is important.

Now is his seventh year of NBA coaching, Nelson has gained the respect of his players after the guiding the Bucks into the playoffs with regularity. Respect is something Don received from opposing players as well, while helping Boston capture five NBA championships during his 11-year stint with the Celtics. The epitome of aggressive play, Nelson proved durable by stringing together 465 consecutive games played and scoring over 10,000 points, despite suffering from a chronic back problem.

While getting respect as a player, Nellie's confidence in himself was probably the most important asset which he carried over into his coaching career, but his mettle received a stern test with an abrupt introduction into the head coaching ranks. Hoping to learn the ropes gradually under Costello's tutelage, Nelson suddenly found himself depending on just two months of basic training as a basis for leading the team during a difficult period in the Bucks' history.

"It wasn't what I had planned," Nelson recalls. "I wasn't sure I was ready for the head position, but in a way it was good because it forced me to learn more quickly. I didn't have any time to think about it. Looking back, it was actually quite a break for me because a lot of people never get a chance to coach a professional team. It wasn't a matter of confidence with me, since I knew I could do the job and I would get better at it day by day. But I did want to be sure the Bucks thought I could do the job."

The Bucks convinced Nelson that he was, indeed, the right man for the position, and a new, wide-open style of play emerged as quickly as you can say "fast break."

Initially, Don relied heavily on coaching ideals which he had picked up from Auerbach. And although he says he's still influenced by what he had picked up from Red, Nellie continues to develop his own coaching style. "Actually, I've learned a little from everyone whom I've been associated with in basketball, from high school up through the pros," Nelson recalls. "But my philosophies haven't really changed that much from when I first broke in. We've simply acquired better players over the years that can execute my philosophies better, that's all. And I haven't made any major changes from year to year. I basically stick with these philosophies that I have that I know will win. There's no sense messing with success."

Nelson cites his other duty as Director of Player Personnel as an integral part of his team's success. Not every NBA coach has the luxury of being able to select his own players, and Nelson probably understands the significance of that freedom better than anyone. "It lets me do things my way," says Don. "My relationship with (Bucks President) Jim Fitzgerald has been an excellent one — it has worked out very nicely."

But Nelson isn't one to take all of the bows for the Bucks' string of success. Instead, he's quick to credit assistants John Killilea and Gary St. Jean for their work with the team. In fact, Nellie's unassuming nature might give someone the impression that he actually has little to do with the club's winning ways. But those close to the game — and anyone who understands Nelson — gives credit where it is due.

To better understand Nelson, it might be best to start with his background. A Midwesterner at heart, Nellie was born in Muskegon, Michigan, and grew up there and in Rock Island, Illinois, where his family moved. He was raised on a farm, and attended school in a one-room schoolhouse which he said had an enrollment somewhere around seven. His first exposure to basketball occurred when an uncle fashioned a bicycle tire into a hoop above the chicken coop, where dribbling was understandably a messy experience. Nelson eventually went on to star at the University of Iowa, before becoming acclimated to the fast-paced lifestyle of the NBA. But now, even as a coach, Nelson is typically quiet — except for when a referee draws his ire — with no real desire to impress people. His small town roots are still apparent in his conservative dress, and the enjoyment he derives from life's simple pleasures.

Nellie believes there is a definite difference between today's players and those from a decade ago when he wore the familiar No. 19 in the green and white of Boston. "First of all, players today seem to have a lot more freedom — in terms of physical ability — to do what they want to on the court. Also, there are much more sophisticated offenses and defenses being used by teams today."

As a player, Nelson never really possessed great physical skills, but he more than made up for it with determination and desire. It's obvious, then, why he cringes whenever he sees that a player is not putting forth one hundred percent. "It's very disappointing when you see a guy not getting the most out of his talents. I don't have a problem with guys who play hard and intelligent for a whole game. But I have a real problem with someone who continually makes mental errors and doesn't put out."

According to Nelson, attitude is one of the most important ingredients when trying to develop a winner. He says that instead of each player forming their own attitude, it's up to the coach to portray a particular attitude which the team can relate to. At the same time, however, Nellie says each coach is unique. "Every coach does things differently with the different areas of the game, from the way they handle men, to the x's and o's on the blackboard."

But don't let Nelson's down-to-earth, laid-back approach to life fool you. If he had been given a choice, his middle name would have been "competitive." And right along side that need to compete is an intensity level as high as might be found anywhere. Winning is the bottom line, according to the Bucks' coach, while losing is simply something that doesn't pass quickly enough.

"Losing is just something I've never learned how to do very well," Nelson admits. "There used to be a time that no matter what I did I had to win. I've pretty much gotten over that, but I've never gotten away from that with basketball. Losing bothers me. I wish I could forget it when it happens and move onto something else, but it stays with me into the next day."

With all of that dedication to winning at such a high level of intensity, what does Nellie do to relax when he's away from basketball? "Anything that's competitive," he says. And that might help to explain why the Bucks have been winning under Nelson.

John Killilea
Assistant Coach and Assistant Director of Player Personnel
by Ross M. Worzalla

If there's one assistant coach in the NBA today totally immersed in his coaching position, it would have to be John Killilea. "Killer" is head coach Don Nelson's main man on the bench, at practice or wherever Killilea may be at a given time. Killilea's life practically revolves around the game from one end of the calendar to the other.

During the regular season, Killilea never knows if he's coming or going. His time is devoted entirely to basketball. It's an obsession that has made him nearly a one-dimensional person. To say that Killilea is constantly on the go is an understatement. The 52-year-old New England native travels an estimated 200,000 air miles during the course of the season. Most of it is with the Bucks, but with time permitting, he will sneak away from his regular duties as an assistant coach to scout upcoming opposition in another city in an endless quest to gain the upper hand on the court.

"I've learned in this League the importance of scouting," says Killer. "I believe in knowing everything there is to know about the opponents. I don't think you can ever know too much about an opponent."

Defense is John's specialty. He concentrates on the deceptions of match-up man-to-man alignments or other complicated defenses that comply with the League's no-zone rule. His infatuation with that part of the game is in part due to his own concentration on defense while playing at Boston University.

"I was as bad a player as I had ever seen," Killilea recalls. "I was a real bad shooter so naturally I had to learn how to play defense if I wanted to play."

Born in Boston, Mass., John grew up in the New England area and coached 18 years of high school basketball before joining the pro ranks on a full-time basis with the Boston Celtics in 1971. Originally, the switch from high school to the pros was primarily for economic reasons, "and it was an opportunity for me to work with some of the greatest players in the game like John Havlicek, Dave Cowens and Paul Silas." And, of course, Don Nelson.

As a matter of fact, when Larry Costello announced his resignation in November, 1976, it was Nelson — Costello's assistant at the time — who recommended Killilea for the head job on an interim basis. As things turned out, Nellie stayed on as the head coach and John became his assistant. But as Nelson says, "We're actually co-coaches."

As Nelson's assistant, Killilea directs a good portion of each practice, handles most of the team's pro scouting, assists Nellie in making decisions during a game and acts as assistant director of player personnel. He did serve a brief stint as head coach when Nelson was sidelined with back surgery three seasons ago.

While John still has aspirations of becoming a head coach someday, he's happy with his present situation in Milwaukee. "It's a great deal easier to be an assistant coach than it is to be a head coach. You can afford to be a lot friendlier, a lot more sympathetic as an assistant. You just don't have the pressures of the head coach."

In a sense, being an assistant is often a more enjoyable position than that of the head spot. Killilea is not held directly responsible if the team loses, he absorbs no real heat from the media for a questionable move, and doesn't actually wield the ax when it's time to trim the roster. He is sort of a buffer zone between the players and the head coach and, in a way, can still be considered as a Mr. Nice Guy.

Come game time, however, Killer can be anything but nice. He's like a hair-spring trigger ready to explode at a missed call by a referee, as he stalks the sidelines waving his ever-present yellow note pad (which has been known to approach the bench or floor at above average speed). That may be one reason why his nickname is "Killer." Another reason is because most everyone has a difficult time pronouncing his last name.

John's nickname baffles his wife, Eli, because underneath that tremendous basketball mind is a genuinely warm person. And if there is one thing that takes precedence over the game he loves, it's his wife and four children. But during the season, it's hard to make that distinction because of his devotion to coaching. "I just love the intensity," Killilea says. "I get a tremendous high from winning. And if the Bucks lose, it's the utter pits."

Garry St. Jean
by Gregg Hoffman

Garry St. Jean technically is sitting one spot closer on the bench to Head Coach Don Nelson this season.

With the departure of assistant coach Dave Wohl for the Los Angeles Lakers, St. Jean serves with John Killilea as the two assistants to Nelson.

"I don't think it has had a profound effect on my duties," said St. Jean, who became a Bucks' assistant in February, 1981.

"It entails keeping a few more statistics and doing some of the things Dave did in practice sessions, but my main responsibilities are still in the area of scouting and in training camps."

St. Jean holds his undergraduate and masters degrees in physical education from Springfield College in Massachusetts and has completed course work toward a doctorate in education.

While at Springfield, he captained both the basketball and soccer squads before a series of knee operations cut his athletic career short after his sophomore year.

After his graduation from Springfield, Garry returned to his hometown of Chicopee, Massachusetts, to take over the head basketball coaching job at his alma mater, Chicopee High School. As a Chicopee prep player, he was named all state in basketball and soccer and was named to Parade Magazine's top 500 basketball list.

As a coach at Chicopee, he posted a 122-65 (.652) record over eight years. His teams qualified for the Massachusetts State High School Tournament seven times.

Garry worked with Nelson at various camps and clinics over a 10 year period. That association led to his linking up with the Bucks.

"I feel very fortunate to be making a living in something I love," St. Jean said. "I'm with a great organization and working with great people."

Jeff Snedeker
Trainer
by Gregg Hoffmann

After last season, just about any season would seem like a picnic for Bucks' trainer Jeff Snedeker.

Snedeker was a very busy man last year as injuries plagued the Bucks throughout the season.

"It was the worst year I've seen," Snedeker said. "There are no real answers to why injuries will happen like that. Maybe it boils down to luck."

The Bucks couldn't have had a more experienced man to do their patching up than Snedeker. He brings 22 years of experience to his job and is the only trainer to have worked in three different professional sports and with two different world champions.

Before coming to the Bucks, Jeff spent 14 years with the New York Jets of the National Football League, where he spent much of his time working on quarterback Joe Namath's knees. He served two years with the New York Cosmos of the NASL and some time as the trainer for visiting teams at Madison Square Garden and a substitute trainer for the New York Knicks.

A possessor of a Master of Science degree in athletic training from Indiana University, Snedeker has continued to educate himself in his field by doing off-season research in the area of strength testing and flexibility at the Institute for Sports Medicine and Athletic Trauma at New York City's Lenox Hospital.

He also has served as a part-time lecturer in physical education at Barnard College in New York, while teaching graduate courses in sports medicine.

Snedeker owns the Sport Clinic of Greater Milwaukee, 2979 North Mayfair Road, a special physical therapy clinic which celebrated its first anniversary last September.

The Bucks trainer is a member of the American College of Sports Medicine, the National Athletic Trainers' Association, the Eastern Athletic Trainers' Association, the New York State Athletic Trainers' Association and the Wisconsin Athletic Trainers' Association.

Snedeker, 44, and his wife, Joy, have four children, Cheryl, Connie, Karen and Kathy. The family resides in Whitefish Bay.

Bill King II
Director of Publicity

Now in his sixth season as Director of Publicity for the Milwaukee Bucks, Bill King II is constantly striving for more efficient means of disseminating information to the media and public.

It is through King's office that the vast amount of information on the club is funneled. "I approach the position as an information service that is best served by keeping the lines of communication open between the club, the electronic and print media, and the general public . . . our fans."

The avenues through which that information passes are varied. They range from the written — news releases, media guides, the HOOP game program and other official publications of the club — to radio and televison broadcasts and programming.

King is responsible for the management of home games in the Milwaukee Arena with special attention to press accomodations, the statistical crew, game notes, and photography. The Bucks Speakers Bureau and Film Library are also operated by the publicity office.

King joined the club in 1977 as one of the youngest publicists in professional sports and now, at age 27, ranks seventh in seniority among NBA public relations directors.

A native of Neptune City, New Jersey, King is a graduate of Neptune High School where he was involved in a host of extracurricular activities. He went on to become the youngest full-time Sports Information Director in the nation at Morris Harvey College (now the university of Charleston), in Charleston, West Virginia. While serving as the Morris Harvey SID, King's publications received numerous national awards from CoSIDA. He was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities while at Morris Harvey, a repeat of an award he also received on the high school level.

King joined the Bucks after serving a brief stint as the Assistant Promotions Director at Tulane University in New Orleans. He presently resides in suburban Glendale and is engaged to Shelley Bundy of Genessee Depot.

Joining King in the publicity department this season is Craig Insana, a student intern from Western Illinois University. Insana is currently completing course work towards his Master's Degree in Athletic Administration from Western Illinois. No stranger to Milwaukee, Insana claims family ties to the city. A native of Villa Park, Illinois, he attended Willowbrook Community High School and Illinois Wesleyan University. Insana has served as the assistant to the sports information director at Western Illinois and has a varied background that includes performing as a cellist in the Bloomington-Normal Symphony Orchestra.

Bea Westfahl
Ticket and Office Manager

Bea Westfahl is currently in her 14th year of service with the Milwaukee Bucks and has been with the club all but the inaugural season.

The task of accounting for the nearly half million tickets processed through the office each season demands precise accounting procedures and a flair for dealing with the public. Under Mrs. Westfahl's apt guidance, a staff of seven sorts its way through the maze of ticket procedures created by the demand for Bucks seating. The responsibilities include assisting season ticketholders in the selection of their individual seats, advising and providing personal attention to the holders of nearly 5,500 season tickets. Also involved is the direction of over-the-counter, mail, phone, and group orders, as well as coordinating the computerized Ticketron outlets.

Mrs. Westfahl joined the club in November of 1969 following a nine year stint with the Wisconsin State Fair Park. At the State Fair she was in charge of concessions and grandstand operations for the State of Wisconsin.

A lifetime Wisconsinite, born in Wauwatosa and raised in West Allis, Bea and her husband Don, a city fireman, are the parents of three sons and two grandchildren.

During the summer months Bea, like all true Wisconsinites, enjoys the out-of-doors, particularly life on Tichigan Lake. Occasionally Bea returns to her love of music and relaxes by playing the piano.

Chuck Reupert
Controller

A sharp pencil and a keen financial mind help Chuck Reupert in minding the bottom line. As controller, Reupert monitors the day-to-day financial health of the club. He is the man entrusted with keeping tabs on the cash flow and advising the Bucks management as to the club's financial picture.

With 12 years of professional basketball experience in the front office, Reupert is second in seniority among NBA controllers. He joined the organization in February of 1971 after serving as a plant accountant for a local manufacturing firm for ten years.

A native Milwaukeean, Reupert attended Boys Tech High School here and the University of Wisconsin. He served as an infantry squad leader in Korea and was a third officer in the U.S. Maritime Service in World War II.

An experienced sports car builder and driver, Chuck races under the Milwaukee Bucks banner in a car decorated with the Bucks tri-color stripes. He is a former Class D racing champion for the Midwest area and shares his automotive interests with his twin sons, Mike and Mark. Chuck, his wife Suzie, and their nine-year old Sean call Milwaukee their home.

Jim Irwin
Voice of the Bucks
by Ross M. Worzalla

"If I can continue to do play-by-plays, I'll be the happiest guy around," says Jim Irwin, voice of the Milwaukee Bucks for the past three seasons. Currently in his fourth season of calling the action for the Bucks games on WTMJ radio (620 am), Irwin seems most fulfilled when he's working.

"For me, doing the Bucks games is just a breeze because they're such a good ball club," Irwin says. "And yet you have fun because you go there anticipating winning the game, and you can get all excited."

It's obvious that Jim loves the game and his job as sportscaster with a passion. Irwin is joined courtside by former Bucks All-Star Jon McGlocklin (who handles the color duties) for 41 home games. "I try to build a basketball game from a lower level to a higher level throughout the course of the game," he says. "Because of the degree of talent in the NBA, most games are tight until the fourth quarter. So I try to build the broadcast on a steady plane upward until a high point is achieved somewhere near the end of the contest.

"My philosophy on sports, that I learned a long time ago, is that I'm a broadcast entertainer. The first aim that I have in any broadcast is to be factual. The second is to be entertaining."

Jim is a three-time recipient of the Wisconsin Sportscaster of the Year Awards and his voice has covered a number of different sports events since he came to Wisconsin in 1964. A native of Missouri, Irwin first arrived in Wisconsin with a job he landed in Green Bay. Then in 1969, WTMJ offered him a position as a color man alongside Ted Moore for Wisconsin Badger football broadcasts. When Moore left the following year, Irwin took over the play-by-play and worked with Gary Bender until 1975 when Bender was hired by CBS.

Irwin also did play-by-play for UWM basketball from 1973 to '75, and called the action for Badger basketball from 1975 to '78. The Badger basketball broadcast duties were dropped when Irwin was selected to replace Eddie Doucette behind the Milwaukee Bucks microphone starting with the 1979-80 season. Jim had handled the radio broadcasts as early as 1977 whenever Doucette called a televised game.

Irwin also covered the Greater Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament for 13 years, and has broadcast reports from the Indianapolis 500. In additon, he has also covered the Green Bay Packer broadcasts on WTMJ for the past 12 years. In addition to his Bucks play-by-play responsibilities, Jim will continue with his morning sports broadcast, "Viewpoint." Heard at 7:45 a.m. on WTMJ radio during the Gordon Hinkley show, it is an insightful commentary regarding timely sports topics.

"I've had to work hard," admits Irwin. "I don't want to say that I'm a good broadcaster — I'll leave that for somebody else to say. I just think that anyone who's successful at his profession works hard at it. My wife says that I'm married to the business, and I think she's possibly right. I think I spend far more time than is necessary to get by in my business. But I think it's necessary to do that in order to be successful at it. Maybe it's also easier to work at sports than it is to do things around the house — I'm not sure."

A graduate of the University of Missouri, Jim served with the Army in Korea. He married his childhood sweetheart, Gloria, who writes documentaries for Channel 10 in Milwaukee. The couple has two children, Anne, 18, a freshman at Wellesley College, and Jay, 15, a sophomore in high school. The Irwins reside in Whitefish Bay.

Jon McGlocklin
Radio/TV Color Analyst

Known for his rainbow jump shots on the court for 11 pro seasons, Jon McGlocklin now describes that very same action on the Bucks home radio broadcasts along with Jim Irwin on WTMJ radio (620 am) and on twenty televised regular season road games on WVTV-Channel 18 with Eddie Doucette.

McGlocklin entered the NBA as a third round draft choice of Cincinnati in 1965. He played two seasons with the Royals and one with the San Diego Rockets before Milwaukee selected the former Hoosier in the 1968 expansion draft.

Known on the court for his patented jumpshot, all-out hustle, and competitive spirit, McGlocklin is second to Bobby Dandridge on the club's career record list for games played (595), was the first Buck ever to don an All-Star uniform (1969), and was a vital cog on the NBA championship squad of 1971. Jon carried an eight year scoring average of 12.5 points with the Bucks and his remarkable .505 field goal percentage still ranks among the top twenty all-time field goal shooters in NBA League history.

Along with lending his expertise to the Bucks broadcasts, Jon is Vice-President of Bando-McGlocklin Investment Company, Incorporated and is a co-owner of Ville Du Parc Country Club.

During his playing days, McGlocklin was heavily involved in a number of charitable organizations including Athletes for Youth, the Wisconsin Society to Prevent Blindness, the Wisconsin Easter Seal Foundation, just to name a few. Upon his retirement in 1976 the MACC Fund (Midwest Athletes Against Childhood Cancer) was formed. The MACC Fund is a charitable organization formed to support research for the purpose of discovering effective treatments and cures for childhood cancer. The primary benefactor of MACC Fund monies is the Midwest Children's Cancer Center located at Milwaukee Children's Hospital and is one of the few exclusively pediatric cancer research facilities in the country.

MCGlocklin, along with Eddie Doucette and Bucks Vice-President-Consultant Wayne Embry, are the three remaining members who have been with the franchise since its inception in 1968.

A native of Franklin, Indiana, Jon and his wife Pam make their home in Greendale, Wisconsin with their two children; Shannon, 14, and Meghan, 7.

Eddie Doucette
TV Announcer

One of sports' most versatile broadcasters, Eddie Doucette calls the action on twenty plus televised road games on WVTV-Channel 18. The original "Voice of the Bucks" is a charter member of the organization and is now in his 15th consecutive season of calling Bucks action with his stylized play. It was Doucette who coined such popular phrases as "sky hook", "yo-yo dribble", and "Bango" just to name a few.

Most of Doucette's on-air duties these days stem from his association with USA Cable Network. His versatility is evident on the over 75 events he broadcasts yearly for USA that range from the NBA Game-of-the Week series and Major League Baseball Game-of-the Week, to men's team tennis, indoor soccer, football, contact karate, and boxing.

In the past Fast Eddie has served as the play-by-play man for the San Diego Padres, Cleveland Indians, Milwaukee Brewers and Houston Astros baseball teams, as well as the Chicago Fire of the World Football League. He was sports director for KFMB Radio in San Diego and WISN-TV in Milwaukee.

Although Doucette and his family moved to San Diego in 1979, they remain steadfastly tied to Milwaukee. "While I've moved west for family reasons, I've kept my business ties to Milwaukee," says Doucette. Along with Jon McGlocklin, Doucette's TV partner on WVTV, the pair have worked national cable games together as well as numerous business ventures.

Coupled with his broadcasting talent, Doucette is quite the entrepreneur and criss-crosses the country doing freelance commercial work. Locally he can be seen representing the Milwaukee Business and Technical Institute (MBTI) on their TV commercials. He has done medical presentations for corporations and along with noted sports agent Donald Dell, is involved in Pro Serve TV out of Dallas, Texas.

A graduate of Michigan State University, Doucette honed his skills on radio and television in Cincinnati, Toledo, Chicago, and Milwaukee before joining the Bucks in 1969. All told, Eddie has been in broadcasting nearly 25 years.

He continues to be closely involved with the MACC Fund. Eddie, his wife Karen, and their two sons, nine-year-old Brett, and seven-year-old Cory, reside in Poway, California.

Fr. Gene Jakubek, S.J.
Chaplain

At the invitation of Bucks President Jim Fitzgerald some six years ago, Fr. Gene Jakubek, S.J. became the Bucks chaplain and now can be seen not only at most of the Bucks games in the Arena, but coast to coast on cable television.

"Psychologically I like to feel the guys can bounce things off me." says Father Gene. "My one diversion is sports," he admits. "I've always been a big jock. I watch sports on television and go to whatever games I can."

Not only does Father Gene watch sports on television, but millions of viewers nationwide follow his long running weekly television series "The Answer is Love" on cable TV. Locally the show is aired by WITI-TV 6 at 8:00 am on Sunday mornings and again in the wee hours of Monday morning. The program is aimed at married persons, the elderly, singles and teenagers.

Father Gene plays to a hectic schedule. He recently celebrated his silver anniversary in the Jesuit Seminary Guild with his work there keeping him active in seminars, retreats, counseling, lecturing, and a host of other responsibilities. On a larger scale Father Gene is a well known convention speaker and is known locally in Milwaukee for initiating a center for the city's needy. Entitled HELP (Happiness for the Elderly, Lonely and Poor), the program provides food, clothing, recreation and visitation for shut-ins. It is located at 5921 West North Avenue and provided aid to nearly 50,000 cases last year.

The focus of features in the New York Times and People Magazine, Father Gene has been honored time and again. Last season The City of Hope honored Father Gene and his HELP program. He was named the Outstanding Communicator of the Year in 1981 by the Wisconsin Communication Association. Other honors Fr. Gene has received include the National Ten Commandments Award of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Man of the Year by the Polish National Alliance, and dozens of other awards from both civic and religious organizations.

STARTING LINEUPS

Injuries created a lot of shuffling, realigning and just plain piecing together last season for the Bucks starting five, maladies resulted in 15 different groupings for the opening tap.

The most frequent pairing in this manpower juggling act was Marques and Mickey Johnson at forward, Bob Lanier at center, and Quinn Buckner and Sidney Moncrief at the guards. However, that wasn't necessarily the most successful. In 22 starts, the five compiled a 15-7 ledger (.682%), tops in both wins and losses among the groups.

But seven other pairings resulted in better won/loss percentages. Five had a perfect mark (group numbers 2, 5, 6, 12, and 14 below) and share a common denominator — Mickey Johnson and Moncrief are the only two to have started in each. Moncrief is the sole constant in all seven, having taken a starting berth with group 4 (5-1, .833%) and group 8 (7-2, .778%) too. Altogether, Sidney was involved in 14 of the lineups last year and shared pre-game introductions with 12 different Bucks.

On an individual basis, only Junior Bridgeman (4-0) didn't taste defeat as a starter. Lanier appears to be the most indispensable with a .722 (52-20) winning percentage.

Of those coming off the bench for a rare starting berth (less than 15 starts), the most successful lineup menders were Scott May (6-1, .857%), Pat Cummings (5-2, .714%), and Brian Winters (9-4, .692%).

Here are the 15 lineups and their records:

TALE OF THE TURNSTYLES

The Milwaukee Bucks completed the 1981-82 regular season with 25 sellouts in their 41 home dates in the Arena and narrowly missed tying their all-time attendance records set during the previous season of 1980-81. In those 41 home dates in 1981-82, the Bucks drew a total of 443,288 fans for an average of 10,812 per game or .978% of Arena capacity including 25 of 41 sellouts.

Those figures are just 5,078 shy of tying the all-time mark set in 1980-81 by an average of 124 fans per game. It was the first season since the 1977-78 campaign for the Bucks that the club did not better their previous attendance marks, each of which were all-time highs.

Three records from the 1979-80 season remain unbroken. They are; in percent of capacity, total sellouts, and number of consecutive sellouts.

Through the first 14 years of the franchise, the Bucks have drawn a regular season total of 5,514,214 over 545 games for an average of 10,118 or 93% capacity. Although the Bucks are housed in the smallest arena in the NBA, the club ranks eleventh in the NBA in average attendance.
